LORD ROSEBERY DECLARES AGAINST IRISH PARLIAMENT.

Says Proposition Goes Beyond Anything Gladstone Intended.

London, March 26.—Presiding at a meeting of the Council of the Liberal League, held here this afternoon, Lord Rosebery said Great Britain would never tolerate a separate Irish Parliament. Such a proposal, he said, went far beyond anything the late Mr. Gladstone intended.

"A system suitable for Canada and Australia," Lord Rosebery added, "would be very different in a constitutional island which, in its public declaration, has declared itself to be a part of the United Kingdom."

Continuing, the speaker said that he doubted if the Government's proposed measure for Ireland would go to extend to a former province of the Government's principal men were making speeches leading the country to believe that something radical was intended. Lord Rosebery said that he owed no allegiance to the present Government, nevertheless he considered it his duty to support it as far as he could. He feared, however, it was promising too much. If it made any general attack on property, as was threatened, its existence would be speedily ended.

TO FEED HER CHILD

MRS. LUCILLE HEWITT STEALS AND SELLS RINGS.

Confesses Everything When Arrested—Prosecuting Witness Relents and May Not Push Case.

Urging that because she was without money and needed some means with which to provide support for herself and little daughter, Mrs. Lucille Hewitt, widow of a former employee of the L. and N. in Cincinnati, yesterday admitted that she had stolen rings from the landlady with whom she roomed in order that she might provide for herself and child. Mrs. Hewitt was arrested on a warrant sworn to by Mrs. Rebecca Mahan, of 112 West Walnut.

Three weeks ago Mrs. Hewitt came to this city with her seven-year-old daughter, Marion, and expected that she could find employment. Several days ago she took four rings belonging to Mrs. Mahan and sold them for $1.00 to a jeweler. Mrs. Hewitt was arrested on a warrant sworn to by Mrs. Rebecca Mahan, of 112 West Walnut.

NIGHT RIDERS RUIN MORE TOBACCO BEDS

THREE PROMINENT DAVIES COUNTY FARMERS SUFFER AT HANDS OF UNKNOWN.

Owensboro, Ky., March 26.—[Special.]—The tobacco beds of three prominent farmers of the eastern part of Davies county have been ruined by night riders. The farmers, who are well known in the community, were found that grass and clover seed had been scattered all over. When the act of vandalism was done no one knows. The three farmers are not members of the S. A. S. F. organization, and did not pool their crops last season. This is the first act of this kind to occur in Davies county.

FUND FOR EXPOSITION

Given By Pythians As Tribute To John B. Atkinson.

Earlinton, Ky., March 26.—[Special.]—Victoria Lodge, Knights of Pythias, last night donated $50 to the Kentucky Exposition fund as a tribute to John B. Atkinson, president of the lodge. A committee waited upon Mr. Atkinson this morning and presented a check for the amount. An officer of the lodge said this morning that Victoria Lodge is the first

Married Women

Every woman covets a shapely, pretty figure, and many of them deplore the loss of their girlish forms after marriage. The bearing of children is often destructive to the mother's shapeliness. All of this can be avoided, however, by the use of Mother's Friend before baby comes, as this great liniment always prepares the body for the strain upon it, and preserves the symmetry of her form. Mother's Friend overcomes all the danger of child-birth, and carries the expectant mother safely through this critical period without pain. It is woman's greatest blessing. Thousands gratefully tell of the benefit and relief derived from the use of this wonderful remedy. Sold by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Our little book, telling all about this liniment, will be sent free.

NECK BROKEN.

Philadelphian Seeks Work Thus Injured.

THOMAS J. KEEN CARRIES HIS HEAD IN STEEL BRACE.

HIS GREAT DESIRE IS TO SUPPORT HIS FAMILY.

SHOWS GREATEST BRAVERY.

[Philadelphia Dispatch to Chicago Inter-Ocean.]

His head imprisoned for life in a steel brace, his sleep restricted to two hours at a time, while he is in a sitting posture with his head pitched forward upon a pillow, Thomas J. Keen, of Philadelphia, is a man who has been known to surgeons, is trying still to find some way to earn a living for his helpless and poverty-menaced family.

It is a story of almost incredible fortitude in the face of constant agony, of the dauntlessness, of the survival of the fittest in a body that for ninety-nine out of a hundred men would have been fit only for the scrap heap of idleness. Keen worked more than two years after his neck was dislocated. Six years ago Keen dislocated his neck in a railway accident. He threw his head away from the wheels of a Pennsylvania railroad train. The effort succeeded, the steel clamps of the wheels tearing his chest, but at heavy cost.

One of the vertebrae of the neck had been wrenched forward, and the bony projection of its lower neighbor had forced its way into the spinal cord. A part of the spinal cord was dragged from its protecting vertebrae and was stretched across the top of the vertebra that lies beneath the dislocated portion.

Keen wasn't earning any too much money for his children and a wife as sunny natured as himself, when the dislocation came. He couldn't afford to be idle, and he couldn't afford to have his neck hurt, nor because he couldn't lie down at night, and spent the long nights in sleepless agony.

Days came when nature, pushed to the farthest limit, could endure no more, and he simply had to quit and search for enough energy for another try at railroading. Then came the reproaches of his employers, weary of his constant absence from work, and his babies growing more and more and his food choked him because of the dislocation, and he was told he had throat trouble. He was bitter and he was angry, and for a dozen other complaints.

His food choked him because of the dislocation, and he was told he had throat trouble. He was bitter and he was angry, and for a dozen other complaints.

BEST BARBER AND SLEUTH IN WESTCHESTER.

SCENE OF DESTRUCTION GREETS POSTMASTER BAILEY.

THE VILLAGE IS "AGOG."

[New York Sun.]

Some unkind yeggmen broke into the post-office at Pleasantville Station, Westchester county, some time on Sunday night and stole about $1,000 worth of stamps and the burglar insurance policy. The blow fell heavily upon Grandpa Bailey, because yesterday he was to turn over the office of postmaster to his successor, B. F. Moore, and during all the years that Grandpa Bailey had been postmaster at Pleasantville Station he had never had anything more than a blue ironware safe, which he had bought from a peddler who was moved by a kleptomaniac and brought back next day.

When Grandpa Bailey went down to open the office yesterday morning in time for the delivery of mail, he found that the front door had been jammed open. Inside was the safe, with the door blown off and clear across the room into the glass letter boxes. The interior of the safe was a ruin. There was nothing left but some money of order bills and a quilt of tobacco which was second-hand.

Grandpa has been inclined to nervousness since his misfortune. He has kicked his little granddaughter in the knee-cap three years ago. Consequently when Grandpa saw the scene of destruction he was so shocked that he was turned over to his successor that day, he ran poked into the street, crying "My little granddaughter is a kleptomaniac!"

Grandpa Bailey's misfortune is a descendant of Painter Reynolds, heard Grandpa's cries and went up to arouse Chief Poth, the chief of police in that town. Poth is a descendant of Painter Reynolds, heard Grandpa's cries and went up to arouse Chief Poth, the chief of police in that town.
